

ANIMAL WELFARE FOR SALEYARDS COURSE

24 APRIL 2024 @ COROWA SALEYARDS

for Saleyard Managers | Saleyard Staff | Saleyard Contractors

Brought to you by the Australian Saleyards Managers Association &
The Australian Livestock Markets Association

COURSE DETAILS

The Animal Welfare for Saleyards course is designed for personnel employed or working in saleyard facilities and is underpinned by the Australian Animal Welfare Standards and Guidelines and is delivered through a mix of online self-paced learning and a face-to-face training day by Aus-Meat.

By undertaking this course, participants should expect to have a good understanding of the Australian Animal Welfare Standards and Guidelines for Saleyards and Depots. To view a copy of the Australian Animal Welfare Standards and Guidelines for Saleyards and Depots click here.

Successful completion will result in the following unit of competency being awarded -
AMPLSK201 - Apply animal welfare and handling requirements.

COURSE CONTENTS

An individual must be able to demonstrate, understand and apply the skills and knowledge required to perform the following tasks;

- Identify relevant sections of Animal Welfare Standards and Guidelines
- understand workplace procedures for receipt and/or dispatch of animals
- follow workplace requirements for maintaining flow and order of animals
- understand impact of stress and injury on the animal
- impact of stress and injury on product quality, including carcasses, hides and skins
- animal identification systems, including National Livestock Identification System (NLIS)
- lot identification of animal and its importance for traceability
- workplace health and safety hazards of handling animals
- correct use of personal protective equipment (PPE)
- feed and water requirements of animals at site
- standard operating procedures for tasks associated with handling animals
